

Watch and Learn

[for handout to public]

Along with countless videos of silly cat tricks and cute puppies sleeping, the Internet offers a variety of educational videos. Consider checking out some of the following, doing your own search, or asking for your librarian's help in locating instructional videos on the topic you're concerned about.

- Purdue University's Center for Career Opportunities offers a variety of instructional videos on the job search process, including resume-writing, cover letters, and interviewing (https://www.cco.purdue.edu/Student/Resources_HowToVideos.shtml)
- Howcast offers videos on topics like how to fill out a job application (<http://www.howcast.com/videos/316939-How-To-Fill-Out-a-Job-Application>) and dressing for success (<http://www.howcast.com/videos/498549-Career-Counselor-Advice-How-to-Dress-for-Success>)
- On YouTube, the Diet Health channel (<http://www.youtube.com/user/diethealth>) offers free exercise videos
- Khan Academy (<http://www.khanacademy.org/>) offers over 3,100 educational videos on everything from addition to organic chemistry
- Ted.com (www.ted.com) offers short (under 18-minute) talks on a variety of subjects by academics and professionals. The new Ted-Ed offers lesson-planning tools based on Ted talks or YouTube videos.

[If your library has a Films on Demand subscription, the service offers a variety of educational videos (<http://digital.films.com/>)]
